Piedmont to offer Woodrow Wilson Foundation Georgia Teaching Fellowships

Piedmont College has been selected by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation in Princeton, N.J., as one of five Georgia colleges to participate in a program designed to help attract the nation's very best science, technology, engineering and math candidates to the teaching profession.

At the capitol in Atlanta on March 3, Gov. Nathan Deal and Woodrow Wilson Foundation President Arthur Levine announced the formation of the fellowships in Georgia.

"STEM education plays a critical role in our state's competitiveness and future economic prosperity," Deal said. "The most important thing we can do for our students in this field is ensure they have effective teachers. The Woodrow Wilson Teaching Fellowships will encourage more partnerships between institutions of higher education and our K-12 schools to improve educational opportunities for students in this critical area."

Read the full story here.

Author Virginia Euwer Wolff to speak at Piedmont March 25-26

In her books for young adults, award-winning author Virginia Euwer Wolff often examines social issues such as racism, teen pregnancy, and poverty. Wolff will talk about these issues during a two-day visit to Piedmont College March 25-26.

Wolff will be the inaugural speaker for a new lecture series titled "Social Ethics Meets Creativity and Innovation" and will talk about how three 20th-century figures have dealt with social issues in their lives. The event will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 25, in the Swanson Center Screening Room at the Demorest campus.

On Wednesday, March 26, from 6-8 p.m., the college will host a reception with a reading and book signing in the Mason-Scharfenstein Museum of Art. Both events are free and everyone is invited. Copies of her books will be available at the events and in the college bookstore. For additional information on the event, please click here, or to see a poster for the event, please click here.
More News:
Fifth House Ensemble to perform March 14
2nd Annual PERC Conference set for March 15
Forensics Team headed to National Tournament
Paintings by Jurgen Tarrasch on display at MSMA

Helpful Links:
Fine Arts Calendar
Piedmont College Athletics